

Browsewrap Agreement Held Unenforceable Against Consumer Due to Insufficient Notice

New Media & Technology Law Blog on September 8, 2014

Many commercial websites rely on “browsewrap” agreements to bind visitors to commercial terms. A recent decision by the Ninth Circuit suggests that a review of how those terms are presented may be in order to ensure enforceability. A browsewrap agreement is a set of terms which is accessible via a hyperlink located on the pages...

Continue Reading

Related Professionals

- Jeffrey D. Neuburger