

Cloud Storage Company Grounded in D. Mass.

New England IP Blog on March 25, 2015

A patent defendant specializing in “virtual” database systems recently learned how real its burden is when seeking to transfer out of the District of Massachusetts. Delphix Corp. (“Delphix”) and Actifio, Inc. (“Actifio”) have been clashing over “virtual” database patents in the Northern District of California since October 2013. In August 2014, however, Actifio filed suit in the District of Massachusetts, asserting two more such patents against Delphix, which promptly sought to remove and consolidate this action with the California cases...