

SEC Sanctions Hedge Fund Advisory Firm For Improper Valuations of Illiquid Securities

Corporate Defense and Disputes Blog on July 6, 2015

Returning to an enforcement priority repeatedly articulated over the years (for example, here, here and here), the SEC recently imposed sanctions on a registered investment advisory firm and two principals arising out of an alleged scheme to inflate the valuations of illiquid mortgage-backed securities held by private investment funds managed by the adviser. The SEC charged that the overvaluations improperly increased the management and performance fees collected by the adviser... Continue Reading
