

Follow Instructions For Use Carefully: NARB Affirms Clorox Advertisement Is Unsubstantiated

Proskauer on Advertising Law Blog on December 8, 2015

A recent National Advertising Review Board (“NARB”) decision reminds advertisers to adhere to a fundamental principle of product testing: competing products should be tested in accordance with their usage instructions to substantiate comparative claims...

Continue Reading