

OSHA Implements New Whistleblower Training Program for Investigators

Whistleblower Defense Blog on October 20, 2015

A recent audit conducted by Inspector General (OIG) concluded that the training provided to OSHA whistleblower complaint investigators could be improved in material respects (we previously blogged about the OIG's audit here). It found that the absence of an official training directive combined with complex statutes, policies and procedures created an environment where training was lacking... Continue Reading
