

DOL Issues Proposed Rule on Paid Sick Leave for Government Contractors

Government Contractor Compliance & Regulatory Update Blog on March 14, 2016

As we previously reported, the U.S. Department of Labor (“DOL”) released a proposed rule on February 25, 2016 to implement Executive Order 13706, which requires federal contractors and subcontractors to give their workers seven days of paid sick leave annually. The proposed rule comes on the heels of a number of state and local initiatives to provide paid sick leave to employees... Continue Reading
