

Plaintiff Avoids Headache of Having Its Thermometer Patent Invalidated at Summary Judgment

New England IP Blog on September 23, 2015

In a recent District of Massachusetts case, a defendant attempted to use the crucible of summary judgment to invalidate the plaintiff's body temperature detection patents. But, as shown in the Court's ruling, sometimes that strategy does not produce the desired results...