

Recent State Enactments Regulating Unsolicited Text Messaging Could Have Broad Implications for Companies that Communicate to Customers' Mobile Devices

Privacy Law Blog on December 28, 2015

Two states - New Jersey and Connecticut - have recently imposed additional legal conditions on electronic messaging to mobile devices. In a few ways, these laws may raise the bar for companies on compliance when sending text messages and possibly other forms of messaging to mobile devices... Continue Reading