Proskauer

Proskauer Launches Minding Your Business Blog

April 7, 2016

April 7, 2016 (New York) – International law firm Proskauer is pleased to announce the launch of its newest blog, Minding Your Business, available at www.mindingyourbusinesslitigation.com and on Twitter at @CommLitBlog.

Minding Your Business provides in-house counsel and executives insightful analyses regarding leading developments and emerging trends in commercial litigation. It covers a variety of issues, such as alternative dispute resolution, e-discovery, international arbitration, antitrust, class actions and evidence, as well as federal and state practice and procedure.

The blog's editorial board includes Commercial Litigation partner Margaret Dale, and senior counsel Jonathan Galler and Jordan Leader.

Dale noted, "We are excited to launch Minding Your Business and expect it will serve as a valuable resource on timely and important developments in the constantly evolving commercial litigation field."

Recent blog posts include:

- Friend Request Denied: Judge Asks Attorneys to Refrain from Social Media Searches of Jurors
- Proposed Legislation Would Set Back Corporations' Use of Arbitration Clauses
- Memorializing Discovery Rulings and Different Judges for Settlement Conferences: Two Proposed Changes to New York's Commercial Division Rules

Subscribe to the blog here.

Proskauer's Minding Your Business blog is the latest addition to the Firm's growing roster of blogs, which include: California Employment Law Update, Corporate Defense and Disputes, ERISA Practice Center Blog, Government Contractor Compliance & Relations, International Labor and Employment Law, Labor Relations Update, Law and the Workplace, New England IP Blog, New Media and Technology Law Blog, Not For Profit/Exempt Organizations Blog, Privacy Law Blog, Proskauer on Advertising, Proskauer on Class and Collective Actions, Proskauer Whistleblower Defense, Risk and Recovery Blog and Tax Talks.

Related Professionals

- Margaret A. Dale
  Partner
- Jordan B. Leader
  Senior Counsel