February 7, 2018

February 7, 2018 (London) – International law firm Proskauer has partnered with Private Equity International on the release of the second edition of The LPA Anatomised, a resource for general partners (GPs) and limited partners (LPs) which dissects a limited partnership agreement (LPA). Partners Nigel van Zyl and Edward Lee served as editors.

Nigel van Zyl, partner in the Private Funds Group, explains, “Addressing legal and regulatory changes and continuous market shifts, this edition has been meticulously crafted to offer the most up-to-date insight, guidance and views on key LPA terms and how and why they are negotiated and the commercial, legal and regulatory factors that influence those negotiations.”

The publication provides insights and analysis of key terms in private equity fund LPAs, detailing specific purpose and pinpointing issues that GPs and LPs care about when negotiating and agreeing to terms. This unique publication also considers regional nuances and provides practical suggestions on how operative provisions should be drafted from those who have the task of implementing the LPA terms in practice.

Several chapters of The LPA Anatomised are authored by Proskauer lawyers across the globe, including partners Howard Beber, Ira Bogner, David Jones, Mary Kuusisto, Edward Lee, Matthew McBride, Timothy Mungovan, Joshua Newville, Malcolm Nicholls, Robin Painter, Catherine Sear, Andrew Shore, Kate Simpson, Michael Suppappola, David Tegeler, Nigel van Zyl, special regulatory counsel John Verwey and senior counsels Marguerite Lombardo and Adam Scoll.
