Proskauer's Study Examines 2017 IPOs

April 17, 2018

Proskauer's Global Capital Markets Group has released its fifth annual IPO Study, which offers comprehensive analyses of U.S.-listed initial public offerings that priced in 2017 and identification of IPO trends over a four-year period.

The study examines data from 86 IPOs that priced in 2017 with a minimum initial base deal size of $50 million, and includes industry analyses on the health care; technology, media & telecommunications (TMT); energy & power; financial services; industrials and consumer/retail sectors. The study also includes a focus on foreign private issuers.

Utilizing proprietary information from more than 462 IPOs that the group has analyzed over the last five years, the study provides detailed comparisons of deal structures and terms, SEC comments and timing, financial profiles, accounting disclosures, corporate governance and deal expenses.
