

Elise Bloom Leads MLB Arguments in the Ninth Circuit

June 13, 2018

Elise Bloom leads the Proskauer team that represents Major League Baseball (MLB) and 29 Clubs in a wage and hour putative class/collective action brought by minor league baseball players. Minor leaguers claim they are owed minimum wage and overtime for any and all baseball-related activities, including during the championship season, Spring Training and the off-season. Elise successfully petitioned the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit to review the district court's collective and class certification. View her argument before the Ninth Circuit below.
