May 8, 2019

May 8, 2019 (Boston) – Litigation associate William Dalsen and labor associate Samantha Regenbogen were named to Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly’s Excellence in the Law 2019 list.

Recognized as a rising star attorney, Samantha was honored for her high profile cases with Major League Baseball and Citizens Bank as well as her work involving internal investigations on behalf of employers. Samantha is also committed to pro bono work and mentoring women in the legal community.

Will was recognized as a role model for his pro bono work involving free speech issues and domestic violence under the Pro Bono category. “Switching gears between complex commercial litigation to First Amendment issues to a victim of abuse crimes can be hard, but makes the work very interesting, as the cases all present different kinds of problems,” he said. “I like advocacy and the intellectual challenge of trying to understand the law and the facts for each new case.”
