International Labor and Employment Law Blog on February 5, 2021

Proskauer is a proud sponsor of the IFLR European In-House Counsel Summit taking place virtually on February 9-10, 2021. This conference will cover developments in the UK and European capital markets, M&A, legal technology, corporate sustainability, Brexit, competition law, and the global impact of COVID-19.

On day two of this event Béatrice Pola, Partner in the French & EU Employment Group in our Paris office, will present on a panel titled "Employment Law and the Future of the Workforce." As companies adapt to the new reality of working from home employers have had to face situations unfamiliar to them until recently including how to hire and train new employees online and how to manage a team that may be split between the office and telecommuting.

During this timely discussion Béatrice will address the impact of remote working on employment law and employment contracts in France. She will also discuss the rise in telecommuting and some of the differences encountered working from home during normal circumstances versus during a crisis such as the COVID-19 global pandemic.

In addition, Béatrice will provide guidance on how to equally manage employees who have returned to the office and those who continue to work remotely, how to maintain a healthy work-life balance, and how to find innovative solutions to unprecedented remote situations.
