"In the legal profession and in my community, I am proud to be a change maker by using my voice and perspective to help create a more equitable and inclusive environment for all. I am honored to be recognized by Crain's New York Business in their 2022 Notable Diverse Leaders list, and will continue to use my platform to make a meaningful impact in the communities in which I live and work," said Keisha-Ann.

Outside of the courtroom, Keisha-Ann gives back to the community by mentoring junior female lawyers and junior lawyers of color, serving on the Board of the Attorney Grievance Committee for the NY Supreme Court Appellate Division, 1st Judicial Dept., and co-Chairing the Federal Bar Council's Employment Litigation Committee. She also was recently appointed to the New York City Mayor's Advisory Committee on the Judiciary by the Chief Judge of the New York Court of Appeals.
