

Rachel Lowe Recognized as Leading ESG Lawyer in Forward Law Review's Forward 40

October 16, 2025

LONDON, OCTOBER 16, 2025 - Proskauer is proud to announce that special regulatory counsel Rachel Lowe has been named to Forward Law Review's Forward 40, underlining her status as a top practitioner in the ESG sphere.

Rachel advises on financial services regulation specialising in sustainable finance and ESG regulation. She has expertise in drafting and advising on the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR) and the Taxonomy Regulation. Rachel has also supported with EU MiFID and AIFMD sustainability updates for clients, including from a governance and organizational perspective, as well as providing drafting and training support. She also advises on the Corporate Sustainability Reporting Directive (CSRD), including analysis of its applicability for large international group structures.

This global spotlight celebrates 40 of the most impressive ESG and sustainability lawyers aged 40 and under. These top practitioners are at the forefront of critical issues ranging from regulatory compliance and litigation to business and human rights-based accountability. Collectively, their work is shaping corporate responsibility, influencing policy and driving meaningful change in boardrooms, courtrooms and beyond.

Speaking about Rachel, Nigel van Zyl, partner and co-head of the private funds group at Proskauer said: "Rachel stands out as a leader in a time when ESG regulation is evolving rapidly and demanding greater transparency and accountability. Her ability to anticipate regulatory shifts and translate them into actionable, forward-thinking strategies is an invaluable asset for clients. Rachel combines technical expertise with a collaborative mindset, making her an essential partner in navigating today's complex regulatory environment. Her clarity, integrity, and drive for excellence consistently elevate those around her and she is a valued member of the team at Proskauer. I have no hesitation in recommending Rachel for her leadership, adaptability and sophisticated understanding of ESG and its broader implications."
