February 4, 2026

BOSTON, February 4, 2026 – Proskauer announced today that Malcolm Nicholls has rejoined the Firm as a partner in its Private Investment Funds Group in Boston. Malcolm is an experienced private funds lawyer with expertise advising sponsors and investment advisors across the full fund lifecycle, with a particular focus on venture and growth equity strategies.

Malcolm has significant experience structuring and operating venture capital and other private investment funds, representing both established managers and first-time sponsors. He also advises on continuation funds, tender offers, preferred equity financings, fund restructurings and other secondary transactions.

“The Firm remains focused on building elite, integrated teams that meet the growing needs of asset managers and investors,” said Firm Chairman, Tim Mungovan. “We are thrilled that Malcolm is returning to Proskauer, strengthening our private funds offerings not just in Boston but across our platform.”

“Malcolm is a trusted adviser who understands the commercial and structural issues sponsors are facing today,” said Howard Beber, co-chair of Proskauer’s Corporate Department and co-head of the Private Investment Funds Group. “The depth of his experience, particularly in venture capital, growth equity and secondaries, will be an immediate asset to our clients.”

“I’m excited to rejoin Proskauer and its market-leading funds platform,” said Malcolm. “I look forward to collaborating with colleagues throughout the practice, as we help clients capitalize on opportunities in a complex fundraising environment.”

Malcolm’s addition continues a strong period of growth for Proskauer’s Private Investment Funds Group. In 2025, the Group advised on fund raises for closed-end funds with aggregate capital commitments of $43 billion. In addition, since 2024, the Group has welcomed 11 lateral partners across the United States and Europe.

Malcolm was previously a Proskauer partner from 2005-2018.
