

OSHA Introduces New Online Whistleblower Complaint Form

Whistleblower Defense Blog on December 9, 2013

As first reported by Law 360 reporter Kat Greene on December 5, 2013, the U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) unveiled a new online complaint form to complement its telephone hotline. The nineteen-question form is not tailored in any respect to SOX whistleblowers. Rather, the form requires the complainant to describe the "hazardous condition" about which the complaint is being filed... Continue Reading
