Christine Lazatin is a partner in the Corporate Department and a member of Proskauer's Sports Group.

Christine regularly represents professional sports teams, leagues, owners, financial institutions and private capital firms in a variety of transactional matters, with a particular emphasis on acquisition and stadium financings, working capital facilities, and league-wide and league-level credit facilities. Over the years, she has advised major sports leagues (including the the NBA, NHL and MLS), as well as a number of NBA, NHL, NFL and MLB teams, in significant multi-billion dollar financing transactions, and she is known as one of the nation's leading sports finance attorneys.

In addition to her finance work, Christine has advised on numerous expansion and ownership transactions for the NHL, NBA and MLS. She played a leading role in launching several emerging sports leagues, including MLS NEXT Pro, Major League Table Tennis, the Professional Women's Hockey League and League One Volleyball, and she continues to represent such leagues on ongoing governance matters.

Christine has been recognized as an elite lawyer by various sports and legal publications. She was named by Sports Business Journal as a 2022 "Game Changer: Women in Sports Business,” has been recognized by SBJ as a “Power Player: Outside Counsel” in sports law, and is listed among the sports and entertainment industry’s top lawyers by The Legal 500 United States and Lawdragon 500. She is one of only six women ranked by Chambers USA in the Sports Law category.

Christine is a vice chair of the Firm’s Hiring Committee and a partner liason to the Proskauer Women’s Alliance.
