David is a partner in the Corporate Department and Chair of the Health Care Group. With more than 30 years of experience, David has represented virtually every type of stakeholder in the health care services sector. David leverages his industry expertise to provide practical, creative and actionable advice to healthcare clients in connection with complex business transactions and regulatory matters. Across his career, clients have included investors, lenders, management companies, payers, hospital organizations and health systems, medical practices, provider networks, medical technology companies, digital health companies, nonprofit entities and public benefit corporations. David has particular expertise representing clients involving large, national provider networks and risk bearing entities, including in connection with regulatory structuring issues, fraud and abuse and value-based contracting.

Chambers USA recognizes David as a Band 1 lawyer in Healthcare, remarking that he is a “regulatory and transactional healthcare lawyer who earns impressive reviews from peers and clients alike.” "He is a master negotiator and is second to none in his responsiveness," says one client commentator, who adds that "he turns around whatever needs to be done promptly and efficiently.”

In the community, David is dedicated to expanding access to primary care services for underserved populations. For almost 10 years, he has been an active member of the Board of Directors of Primary Care Development Corporation (“PCDC”). PCDC is a nonprofit Community Development Financial Institution dedicated to providing low-cost debt financing to not-for-profit organizations to expand and improve primary care in underserved communities.
