Ellen H. Moskowitz is a senior counsel in the Health Care Department. She focuses on assisting clients in the life sciences, health care, sports and non-profit industries on a wide range of issues, including licensure and regulatory compliance, health privacy and data security, health-related labor and employment matters, and corporate governance.

In the life sciences fields, Ellen has extensive experience with regulatory analysis and compliance, as well as with pharmaceutical development, commercialization and licensing arrangements, including the unique issues associated with biologics and human cellular and tissue-based products.

Her work with social services and charitable organizations particularly focuses on corporate governance matters.

Ellen is accredited by the International Association of Privacy Professionals as a certified information privacy professional in the U.S. private sector. She has written and lectured widely on health care law, policy and ethics.

Before joining Proskauer, Ellen was an associate for law with The Hastings Center, a private, nonpartisan education and research institute that examines ethical and policy issues in medicine, health and the environment. She also has served as associate counsel to the New York State Task Force on Life and the Law, a state law reform commission, where she helped to develop laws and regulations on care of the dying, organ transplantation and assisted reproduction.
