Erica Jones is an associate in the firm's Litigation Department, where her practice encompasses a range of business, regulatory, and corporate governance matters. She has extensive experience advising on antitrust issues involving allegations of price fixing, restraint of supply, monopolization, group boycott, bid rigging, and collusion across a wide range of industries, including sports, agriculture, and health care. In addition, Erica has worked in defense of securities class actions, derivative suits, and white collar criminal matters involving investigations by the SEC, DOJ, and state attorneys' offices. She was one of a few women selected to be a Protégée for Proskauer's Women Sponsorship Program, an initiative for high performing midlevel lawyers that champions emerging leaders.

Erica maintains an active, diverse pro bono practice, with a focus on immigration law, compassionate release and habeas corpus, and racial justice. She is an associate trustee with the Washington Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs and has been repeatedly recognized by the District of Columbia Courts' Capital Pro Bono Honor Roll. She is also a recipient of Proskauer's Golden Gavel Award for excellence in pro bono work.

Erica strives to stay on the cutting edge of developing areas of law through her membership in Proskauer's Antitrust Tech Task Force, COVID-19 Task Force, ESG Working Group, and Private Credit Litigation Group. Erica's ability to advocate for her clients is further bolstered by her recent Master's Degree in Accounting from the University of North Carolina's Kenan-Flagler Business School with a concentration in Financial Reporting and Analysis.

Prior to joining Proskauer, Erica was an intern with the Department of Justice in the Constitutional and Specialized Tort Litigation Section. Outside of her career in the law, Erica has been featured on Fox's So You Think You Can Dance, teaching ballroom dance to students at Lighthouse for the Blind.
