Joseph E. Kasegian is a partner in the Private Funds Group with a specific focus on fund formations and the structuring and execution of traditional and complex secondary transactions. Joseph represents sponsors pursuing a number of strategies including venture capital funds, growth equity and buyout funds, evergreen funds, funds of funds, secondary funds, co-investment funds, "funds of one" and managed accounts.

Joseph also represents alternative asset investors, including corporate pension plans, funds of funds and secondary funds, in their venture capital and private equity investments.

In addition, he has deep experience with secondary transactions (including sponsor-led restructurings, continuation funds, private tender offers, non-traditional equity transactions, including debt-like preferred equity as third party financing, equity kickers and co-investments for private credit investors and debt for equity swaps involving troubled companies) and regularly counsels clients on day-to-day operational, regulatory compliance, internal governance and other matters.
