KaDee Ru is an associate in the Litigation Department. Her practice encompasses a variety of complex litigation matters, including antitrust, intellectual property and contract disputes across a wide range of industries, including technology, healthcare, agriculture and pharmaceuticals.

KaDee also maintains an active pro bono practice, with a focus on immigration, voting and healthcare.

KaDee earned her J.D. from the University of Florida, graduating magna cum laude and ranking 8th out of 243 students in her class. She was inducted into the Order of the Coif and served as Executive Articles Editor on the Journal of Technology Law and Policy. Additionally, she received the Pro Bono Excellence award for performing at least 75 hours of pro bono service before graduation.

During law school, KaDee interned for numerous federal agencies, including the Department of Justice Civil Division, the Federal Trade Commission Bureau of Competition, and the Securities and Exchange Commission Division of Enforcement. She also served as a law student ambassador for the American Bar Association Antitrust Section, contributing to annual updates of the Antitrust Law Developments treatise and taking the lead in organizing a “Why Antitrust?” event at the law school.

Prior to law school, KaDee worked as a teacher, specializing in English as a Second Language (ESL) instruction.
