Om Alladi is an associate in the Litigation Department and a member of the Mass Torts & Product Liability Group. Om's practice encompasses a broad range of complex commercial litigation matters, including product liability defense, class action defense, contract disputes, and insurance recovery actions. He has represented clients in a variety of industries in state and federal courts across the United States.

Om has experience with every stage of litigation, including drafting dispositive motions, taking depositions, preparing witnesses for deposition and trial, and securing favorable outcomes at trial. Om has also been involved in preparing a diverse array of trial memoranda, from cross and direct examinations, to opening and closing statements. Most recently, Om was part of a trial team representing Monsanto in a high-profile product liability case that was resolved with a full defense verdict on all claims.

Matters

Recent and notable matters include representation of:

- Monsanto, a multinational pesticide company, in a product liability action relating to the company's weedkiller, Roundup, and its alleged link to non-Hodgkin's lymphoma. Om prepared cross examinations on key fact and expert witnesses. After a five-month trial, the California jury returned a complete defense verdict on all claims.
- Johnson & Johnson, a multinational pharmaceutical company, in a three-week jury trial in Oklahoma City state court alleging that exposure to Johnson's Baby Powder causes mesothelioma. Following jury deliberations but before a verdict had been reached, the matter was resolved on highly favorable terms. Om has also been involved in the complex multi-district litigation in New Jersey federal court, encompassing thousands of plaintiffs and cases.
- T-Mobile USA, Inc., a global telecommunications company, in a putative class action by local exchange carriers. Om successfully obtained dismissal of key claims, and worked extensively in discovery to minimize cost and prepare for dispositive motions.
- Bausch Health Companies Inc. (formerly Valeant Pharmaceuticals International, Inc.), a specialty pharmaceutical company, in a D&O liability coverage action against its insurance carriers. Om was involved in successfully mediating and settling part of the action, enabling its client to recover millions in defense costs outside the limits of the policy.
- DXC Technology, a global information technology provider, in a proceeding to vacate the impermissible award of over $80 million in consequential damages to its former client, Kemper.
