Contact

Richard M. Corn

Partner

New York +1.212.969.3553

rcorn@proskauer.com

Richard M. Corn is a partner in the Tax Department. He focuses his practice on corporate tax structuring and planning for a wide variety of transactions, including:

- mergers and acquisitions
- cross-border transactions
- joint ventures
- structured financings
- debt and equity issuances
- restructurings
- bankruptcy-related transactions

Richard advises both U.S. and international clients, including multinational financial institutions, private equity funds, hedge funds, asset managers and joint ventures. He has particular experience in the financial services and sports sectors. He also works with individuals and tax-exempt and not-for-profit organizations on their tax matters.

Richard began his career as a clerk for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit Judge J. Michael Luttig and then went on to clerk at the U.S. Supreme Court for Associate Justice Clarence Thomas. Prior to joining Proskauer, he most recently practiced at Sullivan & Cromwell as well as Wachtell, Lipton, Rosen and Katz.

Practices

Latin America, Structured Credit, Tax Controversy and Litigation, Ownership and Operational Issues, Private Credit Restructuring, International Private Client Services, Tax, Private Client Services

Industries

Private Capital, Real Assets

Education

University of Chicago Law School, J.D.

High honors

The Ohio State University, B.S.

summa cum laude

Admissions & Qualifications

New York

Court Admissions

U.S. Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit

Memberships

New York City Bar Association

Awards & Recognition

The Legal 500 United States: Taxes: Non-Contentious 2016